STUDENTS, FACULTY, COUNSELORS, AND RESEARCHERS WORLDWIDE ARE NOW ACCESSING *COUNSELING AND PSYCHOTHERAPY
TRANSCRIPTS, CLIENT NARRATIVES, AND REFERENCE WORKS

Los Angeles, London, New Delhi, and Singapore (May 7, 2008) – Six-hundred thousand researchers, educators, and students worldwide are now accessing Counseling and Psychotherapy Transcripts, Client Narratives, and Reference Works, the unique new research and training resource for psychologists, social workers, counselors, therapists, and students of mental health and the social sciences.

Offered by SAGE and Alexander Street Press, Counseling and Psychotherapy Transcripts, Client Narratives, and Reference Works will contain, at completion, over 2,000 transcripts of actual therapy sessions, 40,000 pages of first-person accounts, and 25,000 pages of major reference works, including non-fiction, first-person diaries, letters, autobiographies, oral histories, and personal memoirs, along with the full text of therapy sessions, all of which have been through a rigorous anonymization process to protect patient privacy. To provide added value, all content has been thoroughly indexed, enabling researchers to find materials by diagnosis, symptoms, patient demographics, and more.

“Up until now, personal accounts by clients and records of their therapy experiences have not been widely available, leaving researchers with only journal articles and textbooks, which typically just examine case studies, prove a hypothesis, or teach about a disorder,” commented Stephen Rhind-Tutt, President of Alexander Street Press. “Counseling and Psychotherapy Transcripts, Client Narratives, and Reference Works has begun to fill the research gap, by offering the candid voice of the client and making it possible for scholars and therapists to explore and analyze those primary source narratives.”

“We’re not surprised this database has been so well received,” added Alison Mudditt, Executive Vice President of SAGE’s Higher Education Group. “SAGE has long been a leader in publishing in the fields of psychology and counseling and this new database is just one more way we’re providing a world-class research experience to both students and professionals alike.”
