

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CONTACT:
Mary Kay Jezzini
SAGE Publicist
212-352-1404
publicity@sagepub.com

THE JOURNAL OF BIOMOLECULAR SCREENING GARNERS ASSOCIATION TRENDS BRONZE AWARD FOR SCHOLARLY/TECHNICAL/SCIENTIFIC JOURNAL

Los Angeles, London, New Delhi, and Singapore (January 3, 2008) – The Society for Biomolecular Sciences and SAGE are pleased to announce that the Journal of Biomolecular Screening (JBS) has won a Bronze Award for best “Scholarly/Technical/Scientific Journal” in the annual Association TRENDS All-Media Contest.

Over 400 publishers vied for 29 categories of awards in the 2007 Association TRENDS All-Media Contest, such as “Best Trade Association Magazine”, “Best Monthly Professional Society Magazine” as well as the category won by the JBS, “Best Scholarly/Technical/Scientific Journal”. Contest winners will be honored at the “Salute to Association Excellence” event on February 15, 2008.

Launched in 1996, JBS is the official publication of the Society for Biomolecular Sciences. In the last decade the journal has become the leading peer-reviewed journal focusing on drug discovery sciences, with an emphasis on screening/assay methods and technologies. Highly ranked and cited with a current impact factor of 2.750, JBS features a dynamic international editorial board and publishes high quality articles from top academic and professional researchers. Each issue of the journal features a color figure on the cover from one of the articles published in the issue.

All members of the Society for Biomolecular Sciences receive the journal in both print and online.

###

Journal of Biomolecular Screening (JBS), published by SAGE on behalf of the Society for Biomolecular Sciences, is the leading peer-reviewed journal focusing on drug discovery sciences, with an emphasis on screening/assay methods and technologies. <http://jbsonline.sagepub.com>

With over 2,000 members worldwide, the Society for Biomolecular Sciences is a non-profit organization whose mission is to advance the science and technology of drug discovery and related disciplines by providing a forum for education and information exchange among professionals around the world. SBS is recognized as a standards developer by the American National Standards Institute (ANSI). www.sbsonline.org

SAGE is a leading international publisher of journals, books, and electronic media for academic, educational, and professional markets. Since 1965, SAGE has helped inform and educate a global community of scholars, practitioners, researchers, and students spanning a wide range of subject areas including business, humanities, social sciences, and science, technology, and medicine. A privately owned corporation, SAGE has principal offices in Los Angeles, London, New Delhi, and Singapore. www.sagepub.com

Association TRENDS is the national newspaper for association executives and suppliers for the latest news, information and trends in association management. Often called “the bible of the association community,” Association TRENDS has been published since 1973 to meet the needs of the professional staffs of international, national, state, regional and local voluntary organizations. www.associationtrends.com