SAGE'S ENCYCLOPEDIA OF APPLIED DEVELOPMENTAL SCIENCE:
THE MOST COMPREHENSIVE, ONE-STOP REFERENCE SOURCE FOR A BURGEONING FIELD

Thousand Oaks, CA, USA (September 7, 2004) – What is the purpose of applied developmental science? It's to advance the integration of developmental research with actions that promote positive development, and/or enhance the life chances of vulnerable people, their families, and communities. How do applied developmental science scholars and practitioners achieve these goals?

Readers find out in Sage's monumental new four-volume Encyclopedia of Applied Developmental Science. A timely contribution to this rapidly evolving field, this comprehensive, highly-accessible resource provides the only authoritative reference source encompassing the entire range of concepts, topics, and people involved in the study of applied developmental science. Here's just a glance at the categories covered:

- Applied Developmental Science Training and Education
- Infant, Child, Adolescent, Adult and Personality Development
- Civic Engagement, Families, and Parenting
- Culture and Diversity, Historical Influences, and Social Issues
- Developmental Assessment, Disorders, Processes, and Risks
- Schools, Foundations, Universities, and Youth Programs
- Ethics, and Religiosity and Spirituality
- Research Methodology and Theory

Throughout, this vital resource underscores how information about this growing field can be integrated in a manner that is accessible, meaningful, and useful to the next generation of national and world leaders. It focuses on how to best convey the knowledge necessary to understanding the nature of human development, and the ways in which humans can contribute positively to their own lives, their families, and communities, and to their designed and natural environments.

For all libraries serving students and scholars of psychology, human development/human ecology, education, sociology, family and consumer sciences, and nursing, as well as social work and other human services disciplines, the Encyclopedia of Applied Developmental Science is an essential addition.

Co-editor Celia B. Fisher, Ph.D. is Marie Ward Doty Professor of Psychology and Director of the Fordham University Center for Ethics Education.

Co-editor Richard M. Lerner is the Bergstrom Chair in Applied Developmental Science and the Director of the Applied Developmental Science Institute in the Eliot-Pearson Department of Child Development at Tufts University.
