THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. The SAGE Social Science Collections are a web-based service that will offer librarians peer-reviewed, full-text collections of academic journals in specific disciplines. "For more than 35 years, SAGE has brought the research community the leading journals in the social science disciplines," said SAGE Executive Vice President Blaise Simqu. "The SAGE Social Science Collections is a natural extension of our strength in the fields of criminology, political science, sociology, and communication studies. We expect the depth and breadth of these full-content collections to reward subscribers with a richer and more productive research experience."

"The Center is pleased to be a part of this initiative by SAGE Publications. A politics and international relations collection of journals will be a valuable resource for students and scholars, and we look forward to Presidential Studies Quarterly's inclusion," said George C.
