

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASECONTACT:

Elena Nikitina
Director of Journals Marketing and Circulation
SAGE Publications
elena.nikitina@sagepub.com

NACG SELECTS SAGE AS PUBLISHER OF
*GIFTED CHILD QUARTERLY

Los Angeles, London, New Delhi, and Singapore (December 7, 2006) – SAGE, publisher of over 460 scholarly journals, announced today it has been selected to publish the journal Gifted Child Quarterly on behalf of the National Association for Gifted Children (NACG). The official journal of NACG, and formerly published by Prufrock Press, the quarterly journal will move to SAGE effective January 1, 2007.

Since 1957, GCQ has continued to publish manuscripts that offer new or creative insights about giftedness and talent development in the context of the school, the home, and the wider society. The journal publishes original scholarly reviews as well as quantitative and qualitative research and articles on policy and policy implications.

NACG is an organization of parents, teachers, educators, other professionals, and community leaders who unite to address the unique needs of children and youth with demonstrated gifts and talents as well as those children who may be able to develop their talent potential with appropriate educational experiences. NACG defines a gifted person as someone who shows, or has the potential for showing, an exceptional level of performance in one or more areas of expression.

"We look forward to working with NACG to disseminate the quality content published in Gifted Child Quarterly around the world," commented Dr. Peter Binfield, SAGE Journals Editorial Director. "We look forward to offering NACG and its members unparalleled service and publishing solutions, and to working closely with their devoted editorial team."

"We are looking forward to working with SAGE," said Nancy Green, NACG Executive Director. "We see the move to SAGE as an investment in the future of the journal. This partnership will contribute extensively to GCQ's position as the preeminent journal in the field of gifted education."

Institutional subscriptions will include Combined (Print and E-access), E-access, or Print Only options. The journal will be available electronically on the enhanced SAGE Journals Online platform starting January 3, 2007. The journal's new homepage on SAGE Journals Online will be <http://gcq.sagepub.com>. A new cover design will debut with Winter issue in January 2007.

###

About NACG:

The National Association for Gifted Children is the largest national organization dedicated to meeting the needs of the more than three million gifted and talented students in the U.S. With more than 7,800 educators and parent members, the association is fully committed to national goals that advocate both excellence and equity for all students, and believes that the best way to achieve these goals is through differentiated educational opportunities, resources, and encouragement. www.nacg.org

About SAGE:

SAGE Publications is a leading international publisher of journals, books, and electronic media for academic, educational, and professional markets. Since 1965, SAGE has helped inform and educate a global community of scholars, practitioners, researchers, and students spanning a wide range of subject areas including business, humanities, social sciences, and science, technology and medicine. A privately owned corporation, SAGE has principal offices in Los Angeles, London, New Delhi, and Singapore. www.sagepublications.com