SPECIAL THEME ISSUE CALL FOR PAPERS

SPECIAL THEME ISSUE: PROBLEM-SOLVING COURTS IN CRIMINAL JUSTICE

The Criminal Justice Review is planning a theme issue devoted to “Problem-Solving Courts in Criminal Justice.” We are interested in research on problem-solving courts (especially evaluative research), analyses of policies and processes that feature in these courts, and studies of budgetary and managerial issues. Both qualitative (including case studies) and quantitative pieces are encouraged as long as they adhere to standards of quality scholarship.

The Special Theme Editor for this project is Susette M. Talarico, Albert Berry Saye Professor of American Government and Constitutional Law, Josiah Meigs Distinguished Professor of Political Science, and Director of Criminal Justice Studies at the University of Georgia.

Submission requirements: We will only consider manuscripts that have not been published previously and that are not being considered for publication elsewhere. The peer-review process will begin September 1, 2006. Send 5 copies of your manuscript to:
