

CALL FOR PAPERS

Journal of Diagnostic Medical Sonography

An international, peer-reviewed journal, circulated to over 17,000 professionals

Official Journal of the Society of Diagnostic Medical Sonography

Editor-in-Chief

Michelle Bierig, MPH, RDMS, RDCS
St. Louis University, Missouri

Creating and interpreting clear and precise sonographic images is both an art and a science. Every other month, the Journal of Diagnostic Medical Sonography (JDMS) will ensure you don't skip a beat by presenting the latest diagnostic techniques and interpretation methods, thought-provoking case reports, most practical research applications, and the newest hardware/software technologies and equipment, in a variety of speciality areas.

Send inquiries via e-mail to Michelle Bierig at JDMSeditor@sdms.org.

For author guidelines, please visit <http://jdms.sagepub.com> and click Manuscript Submission.

The Editor invites papers on topics including (but not limited to) the following:

- application of 3D imaging in sonography
- literature review on the latest techniques using sonography
- use of sonoelastography
- transcranial imaging
- practical approaches in abdominal vascular imaging
- fetal surveillance tests in hypertensive pregnancies
- sonographic evaluation of transplant
- sonographic findings in common chromosomal syndromes
- use of sonography during invasive procedures
- sonographic appearances of typical and atypical neoplasms

Submit your article to JDMS online with SAGETRACK!
<http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/sdms-jdms>

JDMS is now accepting Multi-Media submissions

Authors typically submit still frames to JDMS as examples of the pathology or subject matter. Video and audio is an additive media method that the author can submit in addition to the still frames. Some examples could be a video clip of a quadricuspid aortic valve, an audio clip of sound wave, or a diagramed video conveying a concept.

Visit www.sagepub.com/jdms_video for examples.

For more information on multi-media submissions, go to www.sagepub.com/jdms_multimedia

