 Manuscript Preparation

Articles submitted to Sociological Perspectives may not exceed 10,000 words (approximately 40 pages including text, endnotes, and references) and may not contain more than 10 tables and figure panels. Manuscripts should be prepared using the ASA Style Guide (Fourth Edition). All pages must be typed, double-spaced (including references, footnotes, and endnotes). Text must be in 12-point Time Roman. Block quotes may be single-spaced. Must include margins of 1.25 inches on all the four sides and number all pages sequentially.

Sections in a manuscript may include the following (in this order):

(1) Title page, (2) Abstract, (3) Keywords, (4) Text, (5) Notes, (6) References, (7) Tables, (8) Figures, and (9) Appendices.

1. Title page. Please include the following: Full article title
Acknowledgments and credits
Each author's complete name and institutional affiliation(s)
Grant numbers and/or funding information
Corresponding author (name, address, phone/fax, e-mail)

2. Abstract. Print the abstract (150 to 200 words) on a separate page headed by the full article title. Omit author(s)'s names.

3. Text. Begin article text on a new page headed by the full article title.

a. Headings and subheadings. Subheadings should indicate the organization of the content of the manuscript. Generally, three heading levels are sufficient to organize text. THIS IS A FIRST-LEVEL HEAD (All caps and left-justified), This Is a Second-Level Head (Italics and left-justified; capitalize all words except prepositions, and coordinating conjunctions) and This is a third-level head (these are run-in heads, italics, indented at the beginning of the paragraph and followed by a period).

b. Citations. Citations in the text should provide the last name of the author(s) and year of publication. Include page numbers when referring to direct quotes or specific passages. Following are some examples of text citations: (i) When author's name is in the text, follow it with the publication year in parentheses-... Duncan (1959). The first time that an author's name is in the text, the full name should be included. Subsequently, only the last name should be included-... Samuel George (2003) says... George (2003) When author's name is not in the text, enclose the last name and year in parentheses-...(George 1963). (ii) Pages cited follow the year of publication after a colon-...(Duncan and Weiss 1971:71-85). (iii) Use the last name of both authors for joint authors-...(Martin and Bailey 1988). (iv) For three authors, cite all three names in the first citation in the text-...(George, Smith, and Baily 1962). For all subsequent citations use "et al."-...(George et al. 1962). (v) For works with four or more authors, use "et al." throughout. (vi) For citation of a version published earlier, list the earliest publication date in brackets followed by the most recent publication date-... Veblen ([1866]). (vii) Separate a series of references with semicolons. (viii) Use "forthcoming" for unpublished materials and N.d if no date is available-... the earlier study by Smith

(forthcoming) and Bailey (N.d).(ix)For machine-readable data files, cite authorship and date-...(Institute for Survey Research 1976).(x)For e-resource citations, See section 5.3 of ASA(4th ed).

4. Notes. Notes should be typed or printed, double-spaced, in a separate “ENDNOTES” section. Begin each note with the superscript numeral to which it is keyed in the text (e.g., “¹After 1981, there were...”). Notes can (a) explain or amplify text, (b) cite materials of limited availability, or (c) append information presented in a table or figure. Avoid long notes: consider (a) stating in the text that information is available from the author, (b) depositing the information in a national retrieval center and inserting a short footnote or a citation in the text, or (c) adding an appendix. Each note should not exceed 100 words.

5. References. References are presented in a separate section headed “REFERENCES.” All references cited in the text must be listed in the reference section, and vice versa. 1. Do not use “et al.” in the Reference list at the end; names of all authors of a publication should be listed there. Publication information for each must be complete and correct. List the references in alphabetical order by authors’ last names; include first names and middle initials for all authors when available. List two or more entries by the same author(s) in order of the year of publication. When the cited material is not yet published but has been accepted for publication, use “Forthcoming” in place of the date and give the journal name or publishing house. For dissertations and unpublished papers, cite the date and place the paper was presented and/or where it is available. If no date is available, use “N.d.” in place of the date. If two or more cited works are by the same author(s) within the same year, list them in alphabetical order by title and distinguish them by adding the letters a, b, c, etc., to the year (or to “Forthcoming”). For works with more than one author, only the name of the first author is inverted (e.g., “Jones, Arthur B., Colin D. Smith, and James Petersen”). List all authors; using “et al.” in the reference list is not acceptable. Please do not use em-dashes for same author names in consecutive references. Instead treat it as any other reference and use the full author name. Refer to the ASA Style Guide (4th ed.) for additional examples:

6. Tables. Tables should be numbered consecutively in the order in which they appear in the text and must include table titles. Tables will appear in the published article in the order in which they are numbered initially. Each table must include a descriptive title and headings for all columns and rows. Gather general notes to tables as "Notes:"; use a, b, c, etc., for table footnotes. Use asterisks*, , and/or  to indicate significance at the $p < .05$, $p < .01$, and $p < .001$ levels, respectively, and always specify one-tailed or two-tailed tests.

All tables must be cited in text. Please make sure tables are in editable format and not supplied as images.

7. Figures. Figures should be numbered consecutively in the order in which they appear in the text and must include figure captions. Figures will appear in the published article in the order in which they are numbered initially. All artwork must be submitted on disk or as camera-ready art. Figures must be executed by computer or by a graphic artist in black ink on white paper; lettering must be done in pen and ink or be typeset; photographs must be black-and-white on glossy paper.

All figures must be cited in text. Please make sure there are no typographical errors in the figures as they are not copyedited by us.

IMPORTANT: All figures (including all type) must be legible when resized to fit one or two column widths, 2-9/16 and 5-5/16 inches wide, respectively.

PERMISSION: The author(s) are responsible for securing permission to reproduce all copyrighted figures or materials before they are published in SCU. A copy of the written permission must be included with the manuscript submission.

8. Endnotes. Endnotes should be placed as text at the end of the manuscript. They should be indicated with superscripts within the text.

9. Appendices. Appendices should be lettered to distinguish them from numbered tables and figures. Include a descriptive title for each appendix (e.g., "Appendix A. Variable Names and Definitions"). Cross-check text for accuracy against appendices.

10. Author specific contributions. Authors are to designate (using their initials) their contributions to the paper/project in each of the following seven categories:

- 1) Conceptual/Theoretical Development
- 2) Research/Methodological Design
- 3) Data Collection/Coding/Analysis
- 4) Manuscript Drafting
- 5) Critical Analytical/Writing Revisions
- 6) Managing/Supervising the Project
- 7) Securing External Funding
