Family & Consumer Sciences Research Journal

A major vehicle for the dissemination of new research, Family & Consumer Sciences Research Journal (FCSRJ) covers the richness and diversity that characterizes family and consumer sciences today. From consumerism, human development, and family studies to housing, technology, nutrition, and textiles, FCSRJ keeps you up-to-date on this complex and vital field. Each refereed article in FCSRJ includes practical information for the family and consumer sciences teacher and practitioner. And whether you’re a researcher, scholar, student, or professional, you’ll appreciate the scope and depth of current research in such areas as:

- Clothing, textiles, and merchandising
- Consumer studies
- Education
- Entrepreneurship
- Family economics and management
- Family studies
- Food and nutrition
- Housing, equipment, and design
- Human development
- Teacher education

Manuscripts should be prepared for blind review in accordance with the guidelines contained in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (Fifth Edition). All submissions will receive a masked peer review by two or more members of an inter-disciplinary panel of experts. In the spirit of a global community and the ever-broadening knowledge, FCSRJ encourages submissions from all regions of the world.

Significant online exposure for your article

Your article will be archived on the SAGE Journals Online platform (http://online.sagepub.com), which hosts prestigious and highly cited SAGE journals and represents one of the largest lists in the social sciences. If your article is cited by another journal on the platform, researchers at subscribing institutions will be able to link to your article for free with the inter-journal reference linking feature!
