Music & Medicine invites researchers in neuroscience, medicine, psychiatry, psychology, nursing, music therapy, and music to submit original articles that focus on supportive cancer care and music therapy. Of particular interest are papers with an emphasis on:

- Clinical and evidence-based content about supportive cancer care and the role and benefits of music therapy
- Innovations and strategies in music therapy that work to improve the delivery of supportive care to cancer patients and families across diverse settings
- Interdisciplinary agendas and programs that provide supportive cancer care and opportunities for collaboration and networking
- The multifaceted and evidence-based benefits of music therapy in cancer care
- Music therapy and symptom management that aims to promote the well-being of patient and caregivers of all ages across the continuum of illness
