CALL FOR PAPERS

NURSING
SCIENCE
QUARTERLY

Editor:
Rosemarie Rizzo Parse, RN, PhD, FAAN
Loyola University Chicago

http://nsq.sagepub.com

Nursing Science Quarterly (NSQ) is a peer-reviewed, quarterly publication for nurse researchers, educators, practitioners, and graduate students in nursing science, philosophy, or research. The journal publishes original manuscripts focusing on nursing theory development, nursing theory-guided practice, quantitative and qualitative research, and practice. NSQ features original articles focusing on theoretical concerns, practice applications, teaching—learning processes, research issues, ethical issues, scholarly dialogue, international perspectives, and book reviews and new media. The journal is a member of the Committee on Publication Ethics (COPE).

The editor invites healthcare specialists concerned with any of these areas to submit material on topics including, but not limited to:

• Nursing as a Human Science
• Nursing Theory–Guided Practice
• Nursing Theory–Guided Qualitative and Quantitative Research
• Conceptual Models
• Critical Thinking
• Ethical Dilemmas
• Teaching-Learning Related to Nursing Frameworks and Theories
• Nursing Theory and Family Healthcare
• Middle-Range Theories Connected to Grand Theories

• Nursing Theory and Presence with the Dying
• Nursing Theory and Quality of Life
• Nursing Theory and Quality of Nurses’ Work-Life
• Nursing Theory and End of Life Issues
• Nursing Theory and Patient Safety
• Nursing Theory and Public Policy
• Nursing Theory and Public Health
• Nursing Theory and Simulation in Nursing Education
• Nursing Theory and Views of Suffering
• Nursing Theory and Leadership
• Social Media and Nursing Theory

Call for Manuscripts for Special Issues:

• Leadership
• Education (Inter-professional Collaboration, Simulation, and Innovation)

Submit your manuscript online via SAGETRACK at http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/nsq

For manuscript submission guidelines, visit http://nsq.sagepub.com

Rosemarie Rizzo Parse, RN; PhD; FAAN
Editor, Nursing Science Quarterly
320 Fort Duquesne Blvd, Suite 25J
Pittsburgh, PA 15222